

One space can hold more than one way of living, just as one life can hold more than one dream.